JAMES DOUGHERTY,
HUGH CHRISTIAN,
Administrators.

Gionota and Tennissers.—It is hard to determine who are responsible for estrages like that reported from Cantilla, Georgia. Two different accounts of this close of disturbances always appear—the one Democratic, the office for place of the blame on the other, and not even the wisdom of Solomon could decide from the internal evidence how muchof either to believe from experience on the subject of American election moles, it may safely be said, that the severest condemnation of such mardicous outbracks should rest not upon the rank and file of either side, but on the leaders who communicant their partial first in the easily excited materials of which policides were communicated to the unfortunate affair of Cantilla, if it is true that the redded candidate armed a band of negroes and marched from Bahridge, or any other point, into that town, to everywhere the citizens or impress them with a sense of radical strungth, then we should be obliged to regard the radicals as the agreement of the story admits that the negroes did marching to the bloodshed. The other version of the story admits that the negroes did marchino the town, but denies that they were armost. If the intere part of this antennatia correct, then we should wait for further and more impartail testimony before uniteraking to apportion the degrees of blams. But as to the prime responsibility of the rich and internal case are question.

In this contention we are glad to commend lo apportion the degrees of blame. But as to the prime responsibility of the rob and intemperate leaders of one party or the other, there sine be no question.

In this connection we are glad to commend the course probred upon by the Homocratic Exemitive Committees of Temposes. They have been used tetting on the users question, and have decived to pursue towards the freschnene a policy of kindness and conciliation. Hitherto, windower has been the attitude of the Temposes conservatives towards the reschnene a policy of kindness and conciliation. Hitherto, windower has been the attitude of the Temposes conservatives towards the reschness they have been universities in all the with the spirit of instread and persecution. To correct this impression and show the negroes who are their real fricate the committee have published an address, the tone of which is quite moderate for a political desumes, when the first real fricate the committee have published an address, the tone of which is quite moderate for a political desumes. Accepting faces the soft and them, recognitions for the south. The portion addressed to the negro voters is as follows:

Accepting facts as we find them, recognition in critable tradis as they exist, blinded type presidence of the dead part to the obscurity and deriment of our interests in the living present, unbised by passion, obeying the dictates of menon rather than of impulse, with the courage to be just that there shall be no faration without representation, let the universally proclaimed throughout the beautiful state and occupied disease of the Shate uniting seth as in the overthrow of a common transpar and in the redequation, for any many and in the redequation, of the redical adventures to us.
